

CDR at the Mapping Showcase Exhibition

CDR will be exhibiting at The Mapping Showcase 2011 event as part of The London Mapping Festival (LMF). This is a new, free of charge event dedicated to the diverse range of mapping-related technologies and services available in the marketplace.

The event takes place on Thursday 1 December 2011 at the Emirates Stadium in London, Mapping Showcase 2011 will comprise a commercial exhibition, informative presentations, a range of interactive workshops and lots of fun activities throughout the day.

The event is designed to bring together attendees across the public and private sector interested in the latest mapping innovations, products, technology and services. It will especially appeal to those within property, utilities, transport, government, environmental, insurance and technology markets.

Free keynote talks and workshops will cover an array of mapping-based themes within the GIS, cartography, GPS, surveying and computing industries.

Pop in to see us on our stand where we shall be showing examples of our work in and around London.
