

MapInfo Pro v2021: A Complete Desktop Mapping Solution for the GIS Analyst

MapInfo Pro v2021 has launched and available from October 4th. Lots of new features including Time Series capabilities, more advanced raster support, expanded support for cloud-based data, easier querying and more file formats.

Many of our customers have been using MapInfo Pro for decades, and the thing that keeps them coming back, version after version is that it's easy. With every iteration new features and tools built on the latest technology provide the most complete, easy-to-use desktop GIS system available. As technology advances, MapInfo Pro improves.

NEW Time series capabilities

Create stunning visualizations from your time-enabled data using our new time series feature

Change the time period, display period, speed, and more with the time toolbar

Export your time series for easy sharing with your colleague

NEW Select by attribute tool

Query and visualize your data with ease using our new select by attribute tool

Eliminate the need for knowing SQL and ensure you're retrieving the right data, every time

Expanded file format support

The data support has expanded to allow you to read and write numerous new file formats right out of the box

Supported file types include geopackage, geoJSON, well known text, GML, and more!

MapInfo Viewer:

A free read-only version of MapInfo is available in v2021. This is part of the normal MapInfo installation where you can choose to install the viewer. This is available in the Trial version also.

NEW Subscription Licensing

This is great news for new customers who would have been looking to purchase MapInfo Pro for £1,660 + VAT - as the new pricing is only £590 + VAT per annum.

What is more, is that it includes MapInfo Pro Advanced, any new software releases and technical support for the one annual fee!
