

Upcoming Events

CDR will be making appearances at two annual events before the end of the year. We'll be exhibiting and presenting to show off what's new in the world of MapInfo & GIS.

The MapInfo User Group meeting on November 24th will be our first stop, when we visit Austin Court in Birmingham. John and Thomas will be in attendance to discuss all things MapInfo, as well as a presentation from John.

It's free to attend for all User Group members, and £95 if not. An event that shouldn't be missed if you're a MapInfo user - you never know what you might learn!

Head over to the User Group website <http://www.muguk.com/> for more information on how to register!

Our second event is the following week, on the 1st of December down in London for the annual GeoDATA Showcase. This is a large exhibition taking place at the ILEC Conference Centre, and features over 50 leading geospatial suppliers and specialists. The number of exhibitors is already up on last year, as is the number of registered visitors.

As with the MapInfo User Group, John has a speaking slot, where he will be explaining how to handle large terrain models. The exhibition is free to attend, and there are free mince pies and mulled wine, so there are no excuses not to pop in and see us! Take a look at www.eepurl.com/cnXdXP for more information and how to register for the event.

If you're unable to join us at either of these events, we're always happy to have a chat over a coffee. We're not able to squeeze in an open day in December, but they will be running regularly in 2017, so keep an eye out for invites
